

Yin-Shiuan Ting

Born in Kaohsiung, Taiwan, Yin-Shiuan began playing the violin at the age of 7, and her passion for the instrument continued to blossom over the years. In her native Taiwan, Yin-Shiuan studied violin with Jung-Shin Fang, and Geoffrey Yeh guiding her on a path of continuous growth and excellence. Their mentorship instilled in her the discipline, technique, and passion that would become the cornerstones of her musical career.

At the tender age of seven, Yin-Shiuan made her debut on the stage of the Kaohsiung Cultural Center, setting the stage for her musical journey. In 2017, she continued to nurture her talent by attending the Rising Stars Music Camp, where she had the opportunity to showcase her skills at the renowned Kaohsiung Concert Hall. During the years from 2016 to 2019, Yin-Shiuan participated as a dedicated member of the Kaohsiung Youth Symphony Orchestra, where she contributed her musical talents. In 2021, she took the 3rd prize at the National Student Music Competition in Kaohsiung. She has actively participated in masterclasses with famous musicians like Olivier Charlier, Midori Gotō, and Hu Nai-yuan.

In the pursuit of further musical knowledge and mastery, Yin-Shiuan made a pivotal decision. In 2022, she embarked on a new chapter in her life by enrolling at Park University, where she is currently studying under Professor Ben Sayevich. Under his mentorship, Yin-Shiuan continues to refine her skills and expand her horizons in the realm of the violin.
